LEADERSHIP & MANAGEMENT

Effective management and leadership makes a difference to performance and productivity in any organisation. Many people get their start in management when promoted from an operational post and need to learn the practical skills of the role. Studying for an accredited qualification from an awarding body like ILM or CMI provides the skills and knowledge to thrive as a manager but, perhaps more importantly, builds the confidence too.

COACHING & MENTORING

As a way of guiding development and re-shaping performance management, formal and informal coaching and mentoring have become popular solutions in the modern workplace. These courses develop learners ability to hold the conversations and build the relationships that empower people to take control of their development journey, whether this comes from a place of personal experience (mentoring), or not (coaching).

ILM QUALIFICATIONS

ILM was formed in 2001 through the merger of the Institute of Supervisory Management and the National Examining Board for Supervision and Management. Today, ILM is a City & Guilds business dedicated to developing and supporting best in class qualifications and assessment for leaders and managers.

Most qualifications fall into three sizes, depending on how detailed they are and how long they might take to complete:

Finally, Diplomas are the most comprehensive qualification, with an extensive programme of learning amounting to over 370 hours of work and 37 or more credits.

All learners on ILM programmes receive 12 months student membership of the Institute of Leadership, providing access to expertly curated online resources including interactive tests, guides, journals, webinars, blogs, podcasts and free events.

The IoL is a professional membership body for an active, international community of over 50,000 leaders and managers.
